

MORE THAN JUST WATCHING THE WORLD GO BY... Cutting Edge Solutions For Our Complex Lives

Dr. David Livingston, noted media, science and space expert, and also founder and host of The Space Show®, the Nation's only talk radio show focusing on increasing space commerce, developing space tourism, and facilitating our move to a space-faring culture. The Space Show listening information can be found at www.thespaceshow.com.

David is also an adjunct professor at the University of North Dakota's Department of Space Studies, both on campus and in their distant learning program teaching Ethics and Space Commerce and Space Economics and Commerce, and Space Management. He has also served as an adjunct professor in the Graduate School of Business at Golden Gate University teaching Entrepreneurship and Small Business Management. He earned his BA from the University of Arizona, his MBA in International Business Management from Golden Gate University in San Francisco, and his Doctorate in Business Administration (DBA) also at Golden Gate University. His doctoral dissertation was titled Outer Space Commerce: Its History and Prospects.

His Code of Ethics for Off-Earth Businesses has been widely published. He has also produced studies of the venture capital industry and attitudes toward commercial space investment. Dr. Livingston has appeared as a guest on the Coast-to-Coast radio program where he discussed space commerce and tourism, Red FM in Cork, Ireland discussing space tourism and doing space news updates, and as a guest on other national talk shows, both on the radio and the internet.

When not teaching, occupied, or working with space matters, Dr. Livingston is a business consultant, financial advisor, and strategic planner. For more than twenty-five years, he has worked in oil and gas exploration, real estate development sales, the finance and security industry as well as in marketing and direct advertising sales.

David's casual yet academic, factual, humorous, and passionate speaking style makes him an informant, favorite, and popular speaker to all audiences.

David has been a sought after speaker at the following universities:

- Adjunct Professor, University of North Dakota
- Guest Lecturer, Stanford University
- Guest Lecturer, Univ. of Southern California
- Guest Lecturer, Sonoma State University
- Participant, CSA Speakers Bureau

Dr. David M.
Livingston
Professional Speaker
Consultant
Media Personality

Partial Client List:

- Mars Society
- The Space Frontier Foundation
- Space and Robotics
- Lunar Development Conference
- IAA
- Cato Institute
- National Space Society ISDC
- World Space Conference
- Space Access
- Space Exploration
- AIAA
- NASA Ames Lunar Ethics Conference

To book David now, call (415) 435-6018 or email dlivings@davidlivingston.com, fax: (415) 789-5969; www.davidlivingston.com

Dr. David Livingston's Most Popular Topics include:

How Space Development Can Increase Your Bottom Line!

Commercial space development promises economic growth, new jobs, new opportunities. Learn how you can prosper and play a role in helping us all for the betterment of humanity.

Space Tourism

Space Tourism is about to become a reality, starting with 4-7 minute rides just beyond the edge of space. Space travel will be for everyone, not just a group of handpicked government specimens in uniform.

Business Ethics and Responsibility in the Age of Excessive Greed

While maximizing profits is a requirement for management, even a fiduciary responsibility with legal ramifications if not pursued, there is a fine line between blatant greed, ethical abuse, and engaging in ethical management.

How to Create Something from Nothing

Make Your Dreams Real.

For a real dream, the starting point for most everything, you can create something that works, even out of the nothingness you may perceive to exist.

How Space Development and Research Directly Supports and benefits our seniors and aging community!

Testimonials

"The Space Show is an educational and social resource par excellence, comparable with no other in its breadth and clarity of vision. It is unique in many ways - most noticeably in the impartiality of its in-depth coverage and support of both private and government space activity. It is a truly international undertaking also, with listeners all over the world... It is an excellent ambassador for America in its demonstration of your country's seemingly boundless ingenuity and creativity. Foreign listeners are warmly welcomed, as I myself have been. The quality and quantity of guests interviewed by Dr David Livingston are, frankly speaking, astonishing. I am working my way through the Space Shows archives - which are huge, and learning things that I simply could not learn anywhere else, and directly from people who are 'hands on' in the industry."

- Colin Gajewski, Listener, Edinburgh, Scotland

"David was really a nice person in prepping me telling me how it was going to go, and that he was going to start off by asking me what the difference was between astrophysics and cosmology. He introduced me as if he really cared that the listeners knew clearly who I was. David Livingston is a superlative host of a well run show."

- Dr. Ethan Siegel, Astrophysicist, University of Arizona

"Dr. Livingston is connected into the new space development network better than anyone else I know. He has the current information, thinking, and gossip from NASA, the commercial space companies, the space advocacy groups, the developing spaceports, and the governmental regulatory and legislative bodies. His business experience allows him to succinctly identify current trends, opportunities, and risks in space development. As both a university professor and an award-winning talk show host, he puts all of this together in a clear, cogent, and entertaining way."

- Dr. John Jurist, Biophysicist and New Space Investor

"David Livingston, the gracious host of The Space Show, provides his listeners with a wide variety of space related guests and discussion topics. He handles not only the technical but also the practical and philosophical conversations with ease. His ability to engage both his guests and his audience leads to not only frequent but often repeated downloads of each of his programs. Too bad there are no written transcripts! Plus he can make even the most nervous guest feel comfortable! Maybe I shouldn't say that last part.... but it's true!"

- Eva-Jane Lark, Vice-President and Investment Advisor, BMO Nesbitt Burns

"Thanks so much for your email. I had great fun on the show - as always. And quite frankly I was blown away by the very thoughtful and intelligent questions your listeners sent in. That's a great testimony to you, the show and to your listeners."

- Dr. Jim Logan, NASA flight surgeon

To book David now, call (415) 435-6018 or email dlivings@davidlivingston.com , fax: (415) 789-5969; www.davidlivingston.com